Yanks to come home if Reds free POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Sunday night all U.S. forces could be out of South Vietnam by election time in November if all American prisoners of war were released by the Communists by then.

Unless that condition is met, the president said, the Communist side can expect to see a continuing residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 American military men in the south and possibly renewed bombing of the north.

The carrot-stick use of the POW issue highlighted a one-hour television interview of the president Sunday night by CBS correspondent Dan Rather. Foreign policy dominated the session, held before an unlighted fireplace in Nixon's White House oval office.

Nixon also noted that when the idea of setting a deadline for total U.S. withdrawal in exchange for release of POW's was floated out this fall, the North Vietnamese totally rejected it.

Nixon acknowledged Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been controversial, but praised him and said "he should stay on the team."

As for the economy, Nixon viewed 1972 optimistically, saying the unemployment rate dropping to below the 5.8 percent average of the 1960s, and predicting some controls may be lifted before the year is out. Nixon spelled out U.S. Vietnam policy in wording that did not differ from past statements but which did reflect a possible shift in emphasis.

"Our goal is to end the American involvement in Vietnam before the end of this year and before the election, not just because it is an election, but because these are the ways our plans are working out," Nixon said.

His preference, he added, was to end the fighting through negotiations, but if that failed the United States would disengage through the administration's Vietnamization plan—the program under which American forces turn over prosecution of the war to the South Vietnamese.

"But if POW's are still retained by North Vietnam," added Nixon, "in order to have any bargaining position at all with the Vietnamese, the North Vietnamese, we will have to continue to retain a residual force in Vietnam, and we will have to continue the possibility of air strikes on the North Vietnamese."

Taxes reduced but withholding rises

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal income taxes drop in 1972, but for a sizable number of taxpayers the reduction may seem elusive. Their take-home pay will go down, not up.

The reasons are twofold and like almost everything else that comes out of Washington—something tinged with politics.

Middle-income taxpayers will pay more Social Security taxes even though paying less in income taxes.

And many taxpayers will find their income tax withholding increased so that they will no longer end each year in debt to the government.

Together, these two factors may diminish the impact of the income tax cut, which is achieved chiefly through an increase in the personal exemption to $50 per dependent for income earned in 1972. It was $675 for 1971 earnings. The Social Security tax increase affects people earning more than $7,800 a year. The rate remains the same, 5.2 per cent, but in 1972 it will be applied to the first $9,000 of earnings. Previously, it applied only to the first $7,800.

This means a wage-earner with income of $9,000 or more will pay $488 toward this retirement benefits. In 1972, he paid $405.60.

As for the federal income tax, errors in the withholding schedules meant that several million taxpayers were ending each year having to pay the difference between their tax liability and what was withheld.

Chiefly affected were married couples when both spouses worked, individuals who held two jobs, and people earning $25,000 or more a year

Roads, schools closed

TWIN FALLS—In spite of ground the clock efforts Sunday by state and county highway crews one state, one federal and several rural roads remained closed today.

Several schools were forced to give another day of holiday vacation time.

Idaho Highway Department officials in Shoshone said snow plows were working to reopen State Highway 58 between Fairfield and Mountain Home which was closed Sunday and open U.S. 20 between Arco and Idaho Falls.

Idaho 46 between Gooding and Fairfield was closed about 8 a.m. Sunday and reopened at 8:30 that evening.

Filer schools were closed when buses could not complete their routes in the Hollister and Berger areas and other areas south of Filer.

Hollister grade school was closed Howard Kinsfather, principal, said he expected classes to resume Tuesday.

Schools also were closed in the Jerome County.

The Jerome, Eden, Hazelton and Valley schools all closed because of drifting on rural school bus routes.

Bangla leader freed

By United Press International—Pakistan President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto today announced the unconditional release of Bengali Nationalist leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, official Radio Pakistan reported.

UPI correspondent Robert Waylor reported from New Delhi the announcement presumably frees Rahman to assume the presidency of the government of Bangladesh.

Rahman, leader of the Awami League party in East Pakistan, had been tried on treason charges by the former military government of ex-President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan but was released recently to house arrest by Bhutto.

Rahman's party won an absolute majority in the Pakistan Parliament a year ago but Yahya Khan never permitted him to take office as premier. Instead, there was an uprising in East Pakistan, civil war and then the India-Pakistan war that created the independent state of Bangladesh in what was East Pakistan.

Bhutto has conferred frequently with Rahman in recent days, and informed political sources in Rawalpindi said Bhutto tried to convince him that East Pakistan must remain a part of Pakistan, but with greater autonomy.

Businessman dies in TF

TWIN FALLS—J. J. Winterhuter, well-known Twin Falls businessman, 75, died Saturday evening at the Hazel Del Manor following a long illness.

He was born Nov. 21, 1896 in Joplin, Mo., and moved to Twin Falls in 1922.

He operated his own "drive-it-yourself" business with a fleet of 14 Ford Model T cars and trucks, until the Depression. He then established a coal business and expanded it to include a storage warehouse. In 1939-40, he began a paper supply business, but World War II eliminated supply sources and he was forced to close. In 1946, along with Armand Anderson, he founded the Gem State Paper Co.

Winterhuter, an avid golfer, laid out the original plans for both the Municipal and Blue Lakes Country Club golf courses.

Rupert victim succumbs

RUPERT—A traffic accident on Dec. 26 south of Rupert has claimed the life of 9-year-old Brent Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vaughn, Rupert.

Young Brent suffered serious injuries in a collision between cars driven by his father and Kenneth Kowitz, 23, Rupert, according to Minidoka County sheriff's deputies.

Brent was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital, then flown to St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise for treatment of multiple injuries. He died Saturday in the Boise hospital.

Kowitz was treated at the Rupert hospital for minor injuries, then released.

Deputies were continuing their investigation today. No citation had been issued.

Danish king hospitalized

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—King Frederik IX of Denmark suffered a heart attack and was admitted to the Municipal Hospital today, but a Royal Court spokesman said he was not in immediate danger.

The 72-year-old monarch was brought in an ambulance from his Amalienborg Palace to the Municipal Hospital this morning after suffering "an acute heart attack."

JEROME—The Jerome City Council will hold a showdown meeting today with Police Chief C. H. Puntney and the chief's attorney.

The police chief, reportedly under fire from at least one councilman, retained former Jerome Prosecuting Atty. Sy Kolman to represent him in the dispute.

Kolman said he had been retained by Puntney, but refused to elaborate.

Kolman said he had requested and been granted a meeting with the councilmen scheduled at 4 p.m. today at the city hall. Kolman would say only that he had made the request on Puntney's behalf.

The special meeting is just one day before Tuesday's regular meeting of the City Council.

Jerome citizens have been circulating petitions on behalf of Chief Puntney, which are expected to be presented to the City Council on Tuesday, asking that Puntney be retained as chief of police.

The circulated petitions said that Puntney has proven to be an undersigned citizens of Jerome that he is capable, fair and honest in the execution of his duties.

"We therefore consider him worthy of this appointment," Mayor Jack Russell said the courtesy meeting would be open to the public.

Chief Puntney said he had retained Kolman "because of some of the things that have occurred the past week." He said he felt he should find out where he stands with the council.

Walter Bentzinger, councilman in charge of the police department, declined any comment for publication on the matter. He said two special council meetings held last week were just "routine house cleaning meetings."

When asked whether he would ask the council not to reappoint Puntney, Bentzinger said, "It wouldn't be directly up to me. The name will be presented to the council for reappointment, and the council will then vote on it."

Puntney, 47, was named chief of police at Jerome on March 1, 1968. His reappointment to the $315-per-month job comes up for consideration every two years.

Puntney heads a 10-man department. Prior to coming to Jerome, he had been police chief at Payette for five years.

City Atty. Richard Seeley said today that should the councilmen fail to reappoint Puntney, they would not be required to give the ousted chief their reasons for the action.

Whether cause would be given would depend on the judgment of the councilmen, he said.

Reds begin Asian thrust

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnam pushed new offensives in Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam today and shelled the U.S. Air Force base at Da Nang in the first attack there since Aug. 25.

A dry season offensive in Laos forced Maj. Gen. Vang Pao to withdraw his headquarters from Long Cheng to an airstrip 10 miles to the southwest following heavy Communist artillery strikes on Long Cheng.

He is head of the Miao tribesmen guerrilla army supported by the Central Intelligence Agency. Military spokesmen in Saigon said Communist troops have pushed back into the Cambodian rubber country northwest of Saigon following a partial South Vietnamese withdrawal and launched heavy shelling attacks on allied bases there Sunday and today.

Military sources said the fact the Communists were able to move so quickly followed withdrawal of a South Vietnamese airborne division indicated a big allied offensive along the border had done little to blunt Communist capabilities in an area long used as a base for attacks against Saigon.

North Vietnam has been reported preparing a major offensive in the Central Highlands and military sources in Saigon said there is some fear the Communists may launch a two pronged offensive in the Highlands and in the Khek area 85 miles northwest of Saigon which could put a severe strain on South Vietnamese reserves.

Fire rips mill

RUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—An explosion and fire ripped through the Pillsbury Flour Mill on this city's waterfront early Sunday, leaving one person dead, two missing and at least eight injured.

Two of the injured were reported in critical condition at Buffalo General Hospital with second and third degree burns over more than 50 per cent of their bodies. Authorities said the two missing persons were presumed dead.

Fire Commissioner Robert K. Howard said the explosion may have been touched off by sparks from a cutting torch. Steel beams were twisted, machinery-laden floors collapsed and four-inch glass bricks were scattered more than 100 yards from the explosion site.

One piece of machinery about the size of an automobile engine was blown through a wall and landed on railroad tracks 60 yards away, Howard said.

Authorities said 27 persons were in the rambling two-block-long structure at the time of the explosion shortly after 8 a.m.

Nixon discusses issues Seen..

During his comments about the POW's, Nixon disclosed that Dr. Henry A. Kissinger discussed the issue with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai when the presidential adviser for national security affairs visited the Chinese leader in preparation for Nixon's visit in February.

Nixon did not indicate what response Kissinger received from Chou. But he characterized it as "a slightly hopeful note" the recent release by the Chinese of two American prisoners held for many years. He described this Chinese attitude as "much more civilized than that of the North Vietnamese."

During the interview, the president also assessed the recent new five days of intensive bombing of North Vietnam as "very effective," limited to "military targets and supply build-up areas," and made necessary by what he claimed were enemy activities that imperiled remaining U.S. forces in the South.

Maintained that despite some skepticism about summit meetings, he was heading for sessions with the Russians and Chinese because "unless we talk about differences eventually we may end up fighting about them."

Hinted that he had decided to resume the sale of Phantom jet fighters to Israel. But he gave no details on how many planes were involved and when the shipments would begin.

Assessed the recent new Left somewhat unclear what if any ground rules he would set down on granting amnesty to young men who have fled the country to avoid the draft. The President said he would be "very liberal" on the question after Americans were no longer fighting in Vietnam and all U.S. POW's had been freed. He added it would have to be on the basis of individuals "paying the price, of course, that anyone should pay, for violating the law."

Buck private now gets $100 in new pay raise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military pay hikes that bring a buck private $100 a week and four-star generals and admirals $45,074 a year took effect Saturday. It was the military's third increase in 18 months.

In the case of new recruits, basic pay jumps from $102 a month only 2½ years ago to $288 a month.

The pay increases, part of an across-the-board 5.5 percent raise for all federal employees, not just those in uniform, is seen by proponents of an all-volunteer army as a step toward ending the draft.

President Nixon, though opposed to the latest raise on the ground that it conflicts with his new economic policy, has pledged to work toward "zero draft calls."

The New Year's Day pay raise, 10th in eight years for the military, shows these improvements for men and women in uniform.

—Total compensation for the average new recruit in all services, including housing and subsistence allowances, now is $3,140 a year, up $2,000 from two months and two pay raises ago.

A sergeant major, the highest ranking enlisted man, now averages $15,184 annually, a $1,700 increase over two months ago.

A second lieutenant averages $9,135, up more than $1,300 in two months.

These are all average pay scales. Actual pay varies with the length of service and rank.

But pay is not the only plank in the Pentagon platform to discard the draft. Barracks are being improved around the world; many soldiers are getting semiprivate rooms and middle grade enlisted men may get a rug for their rooms.

The President's induction authority expires June 30, 1973.

Rep. RICHARD H. POFF Jr., R-Va., once under consideration for nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court, announced his retirement from Congress. He ranked second in seniority among Virginia's congressmen and said he will not seek any political office when his current term expires (UPI).

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Frank L. Rizzo, a high school dropout who worked his way from beat patrolman to commissioner of police, was sworn in today as mayor of Philadelphia and promised law and order and no tax increases despite a combined city-school board deficit of about $100 million.

"There will be no abuse of police power in any community. At the same time, I will not tolerate gang rule or anarchy in the streets," Rizzo said.

Rizzo, who has called for an additional 800 policemen to bolster the police force in Philadelphia, the nation's fourth largest city, added:

"I pledge you this: This administration will do everything possible to see to it that anyone will be able to operate a business without fear in any section of this city."

The inauguration made Rizzo the first police commissioner to become mayor of a large American city.

"The people want a mayor who will not duck the issues, no matter how unpleasant," said the burly, tough-looking 26-year veteran of the police force who gained national fame as a tough cop.

"They want jobs, not relief. They want confidence, not fear. They want honesty in government. They want a clean city."

WASHINGTON — Over the years, I have turned down a number of invitations to go wild game hunting in Darkest Africa or lightest Asia, and not only because I couldn't afford the tab. In secret me, I figured I wasn't man enough to face the terrors of jungle and veldt. Like most males who do not earn a living fighting for the heavyweight championship of the world, I was nourished on the legend built up over the centuries by a succession of professional he-men with chests. The legend was that wild game hunting was only for the male who was willing and even anxious to take his life into his hands, far from civilization's comforts. It has been fed with thousands of dreary photographs showing the brawny hero with his foot atop the very dead head of a lion, or leaping into the mouth of an embattled rhino.

The Word was that these beasts had been conquered in virtually hand-to-hand combat, and that the ribbon clerk or more sedentary journalist was not fit material for such duels. Year after year, these heroes returned from their salaries spouting a few cuss words in Swahili and giving condescending pats on the head to lesser men who stayed home where it was safe.

Yet it was developed that there is nothing particularly dangerous about the big game hunt. The professional hunter who guides these barrel-chested Nimruds sees to that. He leads them to their prey with the utmost caution, and is always standing by to deliver the killing shot if anything goes wrong. This is doubtful, since the average big game rifle would demolish a battleship.

The hunter of lions and tigers doesn't even get any exercise to speak of. He's carted off to the scene of the carnage in a jeep of station wagon with built-in sunroof and TV set, and he doesn't bother with the old movie he's about to murder in a conveniently short distance away, usually enjoying a post-prandial nap.

And these days it does seem the living is only slightly less luxurious than a weekend at Aristotle Onassis' pad. Native servants whip up gourmet meals, mix martinis that are the envy of 21, style and or dye the warriors' hair, pitch air-conditioned tents, do the laundry and even, if desired, tuck the weary warrior into a bed. Cleopatra would not have snubbed.

Once encountered a lady who had joined a hunting expedition in Kenya, and she yearned for he wide open spaces from which she had recently returned. "It was sheer luxury," she recalled wistfully. "The softest sheets I've ever slept between. And the cooking! I'll never again be content with a meal at the French Embassy."

To be sure, there is an occasional snake and a body might even get his feet moist if it rains, and the mosquitoes can be a nuisance if a native is slow with the DDT gun. Also, hangovers seem to occur more frequently on the veldt because a body has more leisure to acquire same. But the bodily dangers are roughly comparable to those involved in crossing the street in Columbus, Ohio.

Therefore, I am saying my nickels against the day I am again asked to shoot an elephant. The whole thing sounds like a jolly experience in beautiful luxury that requires no special helping of brawn or virility. Heroes indeed! I should like to inspect an old breed big game hunter after he spent a day behind a ribbon counter during the Christmas rush.

DARK YEAR AHEAD?

PAUL HARVEY

Do As I Say

Now we're going to see whether a more moderate Supreme Court can heal the hurts deriving from school busing.

This is the court of last resort since many members of Congress continue to talk one way and act another.

Who? Ask Sen. Ted Kennedy where his son goes to school, he will tell you that's a private matter.

His private practice does not parallel his public position. His son attends a private school. It costs him $2,400 a year to send his son there. He can afford it.

And it's interesting to note how many of the 100 per cent ADA liberals who are persistently telling you to bus your youngster across town to achieve a black-white balance send their own children to private schools where there are no blacks or where the ratio is eleven to one white.

And arch-liberal Birch Bayh of Indiana also has a son at a private school.

Sen. Ed Muskie calls busing a necessary tool. He says from time to time we must use uncomfortable means to achieve a proper objective.

He also sends one of his daughters to a private school. Of 24 students there, only three are black.

Two other Muskie children go to another Catholic school nearby where none of the 44 students is black.

And Sen. George McGovern has blasted the President for opposing compulsory busing saying, "the President has encouraged contempt for the law."

McGovern, when he lived in the suburbs, sent his daughter to a private Catholic school. Now living in the District, the daughter is sent daily to a Bethesda high school, tuition for non-residents $1,450. Percentage of blacks, about 3 per cent in District public schools.

Then there's Sen. Walter Mondale, the dedicated reformer of other people, who recently removed his son from a Washington, D.C., public school and enrolled him at a Georgetown day school.

There his classmates include children of Sen. Philip Hart.

Interestingly, the first black appointed to the Supreme Court, Justice Thurgood Marshall, sent his two youngsters to this private school where the tuition has been from $1,000 to $2,000.

The black mayor of Washington, D.C., sent his daughter there — now sends his granddaughter — in a chauffeur driven car bearing the mayor's license plates.

And black liberal congressman, Walter Fauntroy, enrolled his son in a private school.

And Democratic Congressman Donald Fraser of Minnesota took his daughter out of a mostly-black public school and put her in a Georgetown day school.

Similarly, the big name liberals in the District press corps, whose publications are busing for the rest of us, bus a way out for their children. Phil Geyelin and Ben Bradlee of the Washington Post, Tom Wolfe of the New York Times, liberal columnist, Nicholas von Hoffman.

Perhaps von Hoffman is the heart of all these parents when he told NBC's Mike Wallace that he "didn't want to make his children pay for his own social philosophy."

He did not want to make his children pay.

What They Said

WASHINGTON — The year 1971 produced its share of losers. But worse than losing is being responsible for someone else's losing. Aren't you glad you weren't the person who said to

Gen. Yahya Khan, president of Pakistan, "My advice, Mr. President, is to arrest Sheik Mujib and teach the East Pakistanis a lesson."

To a Time magazine editor: "Hey, they're looking for an editor at Look and will pay twice the salary."

To Chiang Kai-shek: "Generalissimo, this will make you laugh. Somebody started a wild rumor that Nixon is going to visit Peking. Haha-haha."

To President Nixon: "My advice, Mr. President, is to sail the Enterprise into the Bay of Bengal. It will show the Indians we mean business."

To Premier Sato of Japan: "I have it on highest authority that President Nixon will reject a surcharge on foreign imports."

To Sen. Fred Harris: "You announce for President, and we'll get you the money."

To Larry O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic Party: "Don't worry about the deficit. Congress will pass a bill which will give us 100 million."

To Jan Stenerud, place kicker for the Kansas City Chiefs: "Okay Jan, get this easy kick from the 32-yard line, and we wrap up the ball game."

To Judge Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles: "President Nixon is going to nominate you to the Supreme Court, and since you're a woman there is no way the American Bar Assn. can prevent it."

To a housewife: "We're having a special on Bon Vivant Vichyssoise today, Mrs. Smith."

has to go, and you're the man who can do it."

To Sen. Edmund Muskie: "Why don't you level with them and tell them you don't think it is possible a black could become vice President of the United States."

To Capt. Aubrey Daniel III, prosecutor in the Lt. Calley case: "I'm sorry, Captain. The President is too busy to talk to you. Why don't you write him a letter?"

To Henry Kissinger: "Henry, I'd like you to meet a Hollywood starlet who hates publicity."

To George Meany: "Forget it, George. The President wouldn't dare show up at an AFL-CIO convention in Miami."

To Aristotle Onassis: "The marriage contract is in a safe place where no one can find it."

To the president of the Rand Corp.: "Are you kidding, Daniel Ellsberg is the most discreet person who ever worked here."

To Secretary of Defense Laird: "CBS wants to do a documentary on the Pentagon, and I okayed it because I think it will help our image."

To Joe Garagiola on NBC: "Joe, would you do that commercial for us once more?"

To Mayor John Lindsay: "How can the Knapp Commission investigation of the New York City police hurt you?"

To Ambassador George Bush in the United Nations: "Don't worry, Mr. Ambassador. You can tell the President we have the votes to keep Taiwan in the United Nations."

To a waitress in a fish restaurant: "How is the swordfish today?"

To the American people: "There will never be wage and price controls as long as I'm President of the United States."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Questions

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the danger of radiation from X-ray treatments, and how long does it take to heal? M.

Cobalt in this case, refers to cobalt-60, which has been used in radiation therapy. It gives off gamma rays, which are the same type of rays given off by either radium or conventional X-ray. In fact, there are other radioactive materials that give off gamma rays, and some of them, such as iodine and cesium, have medical uses.

Cobalt is one of the powerful ones. The gamma ray X-rays can destroy dangerous tissue, such as cancer tissue. But they also can irritate or burn healthy tissues, too.

The fact that abnormal tissues are more sensitive to gamma rays than normal tissue is what makes the use of such rays valuable for such purposes.

The time required for healing is not predictable, because it depends on the strength of the rays, the length of time of exposure, and to some extent the part of the body that is treated. Although shields are used to protect normal tissue, it is not always possible to protect tissues near the site treated.

Very truly yours, George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend went to dinner where they served roast beef cooked with rock salt. Would this have any effect on a person's system? —

This is a popular way of preparing roast beef in some sections. Only harm would arise if a person is on a low-sodium diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A recent blood test showed an excess of uric acid. The doctor put me on medication and said this would help expel this acid.

Is there some type of food I should eat or not eat to help? Will vitamins decrease or increase it? Does an excess amount of uric acid give you a reaction similar to arthritis? —

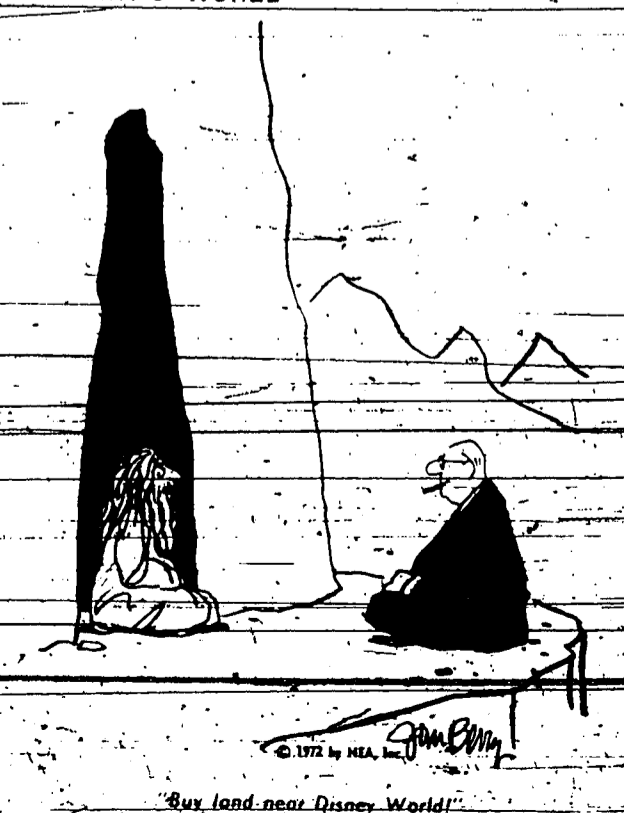

A.F.N.

Diet — avoiding foods with high purine content — has some effect in preventing excess uric acid, but medication is a much more important factor. Vitamins have no effect either way.

Excess uric acid can lead to gout and in a sense, when gout is active, attacks come and go. It is a form of arthritis in that it causes severe joint pain. That phase of gout is called gouty arthritis.

Uric acid also can cause kidney stones, so there's more than one very good reason for keeping the level down.

COMMENT

The Concorde

Christian Science Monitor

The Anglo-French SST project has gotten a big boost this month.

A few days before President Pompidou flew to his Azores rendezvous with President Nixon aboard the French prototype of the Concorde, Britain had given the green light for full-scale production of the supersonic airliner. This means that it will be flying commercially by 1974 or 1975.

Hitherto Britain had wavered in its support for the project. But now, on the basis of an optimistic report as to its economic prospects, the Heath government has decided to back it to the hilt.

The makers, Aerospatiale of France and the British Aircraft Corporation, are thinking in terms of a whole family of Concorde, spanning the next 20 to 30 years. They believe that there will be enough people — officials and businessmen — needing to get places fast who will choose to fly by Concorde despite the extra cost involved.

Understandably the British and French are elated at their breakthrough with the Western world's first commercial SST. But many "ifs" still lie ahead.

It has yet to be proven that there will be a market for the plane and that supersonic travel will be economically practical for the airlines. Skeptics point to the difficulties that financially troubled airlines are having with the Boeing 747, the world's biggest and most advanced commercial airliner. The jumbo jet was expected to transform air travel when it was introduced. Yet it is flying with many empty seats and some airlines have converted their jumbos partially or wholly to cargo flight or sold them off altogether.

If the Concorde is to be used on the Atlantic run, there also will have to be a realignment of thinking with the United States, which scrapped its own SST because of the high costs, the economic uncertainty and environmental hazards. The British and French are convinced that there will be no threat to the environment from the Concorde. They are currently working to reduce its noise and say that eventually it will be no noisier than the jumbo. On these points the United States will need adequate assurances.

Much thus remain to be proven before it may be said that the Anglo-French SST has a viable commercial future. But at least its latest progress report has raised the hopes of its backers.

Night Talk

Lewiston Tribune

Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will deliver his state-of-the-state message in the afternoon when many of the citizens it affects will be working.

President Nixon will deliver his state-of-the-union message in the evening when the greatest number are free to hear it.

In the future years Idaho should follow the national practice. It may be some time yet before a state television network links north Idaho with the rest of Idaho on such occasions. But southern Idaho now has such a link, a link which, it used, will bring the governor's message to that portion of the state when many citizens are otherwise occupied. North Idaho, which will receive the message by radio, will also receive it at a busy time of day.

A state-of-the-state message should reach the largest audience possible because it is far more than another ceremonial address by a governor. It ranks with the budget message as one of the two most important and illuminating speeches of the year. In a state-of-the-state message, a governor outlines his entire legislative program and reveals the proposed course of his administration during the next 12 months.

Many citizens will not be interested enough to listen no matter what hour of the day the speech is broadcast. But many of those who do want very much to hear the speech find the current time inconvenient.

The time is decided by the legislature before which the speech is delivered, not by the governor. But surely the governor would have no objection if the legislature invites him to deliver the next address at a time when more ears are available. B. H.

Between Germanys

Idaho State Journal

The two new agreements signed by the East and West Germanys are in the nature of first short steps from which a league might slowly be obtained. The accords will bring West Berliners to East Berlin subject to some limitations but will not provide Easterners access to the Western zone. They do provide East Germans with an unprecedented kind of recognition, simply because this is the first time West Germany has formally agreed to anything with the Eastern Communist regime.

Implementing the Sept. 3 agreement of the Big Four occupying powers, the new arrangements offer a kind of holiday present to Westerners hoping to visit relatives in the East. As for a final solution of either divided Berlin or divided Germany, they are a very small payment on a long deferred hope.

No Meant No

St. Louis Post Dispatch

We think President Nixon was speaking more in envy than in seriousness when, after a tour of the Anglo-French Concorde that brought French President Pompidou to the Azores, he said the United States would some day have its own supersonic transport. At least we hope the remark was prompted by no more than a moment of fleeting jealousy of the kind a man might experience after comparing a neighbor's fancy new sports car with his well-traveled sedan. Congress said No to Mr. Nixon's insistent pleadings and the SST project was scrapped. Mr. Nixon will have to realize that reality is reality and No means No.

New justice junior to top court colleagues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When William H. Rehnquist takes his seat on the Supreme Court next Friday at the age of 47, he will be junior to his colleagues in age and seniority—but by no means the youngest ever to sit on the highest tribunal.

That distinction since the early 19th century belongs to Justice William O. Douglas, now the oldest member of the court at 73 but a mere whippersnapper of 40 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt put him on the court in 1939.

The youngest in court history were 32-year-olds William Johnson, who took his seat in 1804, and Joseph Story, who joined the court in 1812.

Rehnquist, former chief counsel for the Justice Department, and Lewis F. Powell Jr., 64, a Richmond, Va., lawyer, will be sworn by E. Robert Seaver, the clerk of the High Court, on Friday, three days before the new term begins Jan. 10.

The case load is heavy and some of the major cases were held over from last fall until the Senate could confirm the two successors to the late Justices John M. Harlan and Hugo L. Black, both of whom retired because of failing health.

Irish raids net 100 IRA suspects

BELEFAST Northern Ireland (UPI) — British soldiers smashed into a barricaded Roman Catholic club today and arrested 100 persons, a British military spokesman said.

Two club members and a soldier were injured in what the spokesman described as "a brawl that occurred when our lads got in."

The spokesman said a contingent of 80 soldiers went to St. Mary's Club near the Docks, acting on information that members of the outlawed Irish Republic Army (IRA) often drank there.

When the soldiers arrived some of the 200 persons inside barricaded the doors and all entrances. The soldiers raged the building and called for reinforcements, the spokesman said.

The troops tore off wire grills on the windows and tried to enter that way but were met with a hail of billiard balls, bottles and glasses, the spokesman said.

The army replied with canisters of nausea gas and then smashed down the front door, the spokesman said.

Many of the patrons in the club traded punches with the soldiers for several minutes but the majority were suffering too much from the nausea gas to resist, the spokesman said.

A military spokesman said "as soon as the brawl was over the people inside opened up the bar again and carried on serving drinks."

The 100 persons arrested were turned over to police for questioning.

The army said earlier they had arrested four "fairly important IRA officers" in a raid in the Ardoyne area of Belfast over the weekend. A military spokesman refused to identify the four who were being questioned by police.

A explosion late Sunday wrecked a schoolhouse at Dromore in County Tyrone but no one was injured, the army said.

Gunmen in a speeding car shot and wounded two soldiers on foot patrol Sunday night in the Roman Catholic area of the Springfield road. The soldiers were the first army casualties of 1972.

Neither was injured seriously, a British spokesman said.

Gardner finds corrupt practices among solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) Most state legislatures are riddled with corruption and conflicts of interest, and are wholly inadequate for what they are supposed to be doing, Chairman John W. Gardner of Common Cause said today.

The head of the self-styled "people's lobby" coupled his attack with a disclosure that Common Cause plans to spotlight such conflicts of interest in state lawmaking bodies this year as a first step in legislative reform.

Gardner, in a UPI Washington interview, said his 230,000-member group would eschew partisan politics and instead concentrate its efforts on Congressional and state legislative reform, on campaign spending limitations and on lobbying controls.

He called state legislatures "among the most scandalously operated instrumentalities in this country."

"It's going to be a long time before we have full time state legislatures, but it would be cheaper at the price, believe me ... Most of them are riddled with conflict of interest, riddled with corruption and wholly inadequate instruments of self government.

"The conflict of interest in the state legislatures is the worst evil that they have," Gardner added. "There are men making laws who most of the time are in the employ of the interests they are making the laws about."

Gardner's a Republican who was Secretary of Health Education and Welfare during the Johnson administration. He also said taxpayers would be saving money if they supported government-financed political campaigns.

"I think it would be the biggest bargain the American people ever got if they just took over the cost of campaigning themselves," he said.

High winds lash area

By United Press International
Strong, icy winds sent snow swirling through the mountains of the West today as a severe winter storm lashed the area. Even snowmobiles were useless in deep, powdery snow that trapped a family of four in an isolated cabin in the Big Horn Canyon National Recreation Area in Montana.

Would-be rescuers on snowmobiles were turned back by the snow Sunday, but today were preparing to make another rescue attempt using snow shoes.

Robert Hattie, his wife and two children were stranded when they went to their cabin Saturday to close it for the winter and were trapped by a snowstorm. A relative said the family had little food and only a small fireplace for heat.

Interstate 15 and U.S. 191 between Idaho and western Montana were closed by the storm Sunday and portions of the roads were covered by 20 inches of snow. A 14-car pileup on Interstate 15, about 20 miles north of Helena, Mont., left the road closed for one hour but no serious injuries were reported. Cold, arctic air accompanied by snow and strong winds, pushed into the central portions of the Plateau states, the Rockies and the Plains today.

Sub-zero temperatures gripped much of Montana and the cold was expected to push into Arizona and northern Texas tonight.

Winter weather watches were issued in an area from Arizona and northern Texas across northwest Kansas and western Nebraska to northern Wyoming and southeast Idaho and cold wave conditions, heavy snow, high winds and near-blizzard conditions were expected in those areas.

Snow fell in portions of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and northern Utah.

Snow flurries dusted extreme northern Maine, the upper Great Lakes and the northern Plains and Grand Rapids, Mich., reported two inches of new snow.

Gale warnings were posted for Lake Superior and Lake Michigan.

In Florida, widely scattered light showers were reported. Across the remainder of the nation, fair weather was the rule.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 6 below zero at International Falls, Minn., to 70 at Key West, Fla.

Warlike holiday

ROME (UPI) — A Rome doctor said 1,000 fingers were amputated and police said at least 2,000 persons were injured in a wet and wild weekend of New Year's celebrations. Newspapers said it was like wartime Italy.

Romans and Neapolitans used up tons of fireworks, much of it illegal, and lit up the skies of their cities for hours. Genes drank more than one million bottles of wine. The girls of Matera let their hair go straggly and knotted.

That was Jan. 1 and it was still a chief topic of coffee bar conversation today, more than 48 hours after the big blowout.

"Not so much a festive report of New Year's, more a tragic war bulletin," said the Milan newspaper Corriere Della Sera in reporting what happened as 1972 arrived.

What happened, police said, was this: Seven persons were killed in incidents blamed on fireworks or gunfire by celebrants. At least 2,000 persons were injured, 220 of them hospitalized in Rome and another 203 hospitalized in Naples. Dozens of fires were set by exploding fireworks.

A Roman doctor estimated that fireworks caused the amputation of 1,000 fingers across the country. Dozens more victims were reported suffering severe eye damage or partial blindness.

In the deep south area of Matera, girls did not comb their hair Jan. 1 because tradition says if they lose a single hair on New Year's Day, they will not marry.

Veteran charged with murder

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI) — A 26-year-old Vietnam Veteran, who neighbors described "as the finest kid and hardest-working man around," was charged Sunday in connection with the fatal stabbing of one teen age girl and the knifing of two others.

Det. Lt. John McIntire of the Dearborn Heights police department said the man, Robert Widgren, Detroit, was arraigned on charges of assault with intent to kill and murder. Widgren was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Police said Widgren would be charged today with first-degree murder. Examination on the assault charge was set for Jan. 12 in Dearborn Heights District Court.

A neighbor of the Widgren's, Mrs. Margaret Grajewski, described the young man as "hardworking and a Vietnam veteran" who was "quiet and responsible."

Kathleen Hannon, 18, Redford Township, was stabbed to death Saturday morning. The other girls, Debbie Perrin, 18, Westland, and Debbie Hennessy, 16, Livonia, suffered knife wounds.

Wayne County General Hospital officials said Miss Perrin was in "critical" condition in the intensive care unit. Miss Hennessy was discharged Sunday, they said.

The incident happened about 4 a.m. New Year's Day when a car following Miss Hannon's car in which the girls were riding flashed its lights.

The girls had received a speeding ticket in Garden City and Miss Hennessy told police they thought police had followed them, so they stopped the car on a side street.

The assailant pushed his way into the car at knife point and drove the girls to nearby Edward Hines Park, where he ordered them to disrobe.

The Hennessy girl began to cry and the man reached across the front seat and stabbed her in the neck and right shoulder with his knife, police said.

Search called off

LIMA (UPI) — Authorities called off a search by land Sunday for a Peruvian National Airlines plane with 92 persons aboard, including five Americans, that has been missing for nine days on a flight over the jungled mountains of central Peru, government sources said.

The search by air for the four-engine Electra turboprop of Lineas Aereas Nacionales (LANSA) will continue, the sources said.

The plane with 82 passengers and a crew of six was on a Dec. 24 flight from Lima to Iquitos, 650 miles northeast of the capital, when it disappeared somewhere between Lima and Pucallpa, 292 miles northeast of Lima. It had been scheduled to land at Pucallpa.

Couple weds in home ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Pamela Dockstader and Stephen Dunham were married Dec. 15 in an afternoon ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Dockstader, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Karl Brown, Twin Falls, and Stanford Dunham, Boise. Rev. Ray Jones, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of antique satin under a lace. Her veil was held by a tiana fashioned with white satin leaves and crystal beads designed and made by her mother. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and miniature red roses enhanced with white streamers and centered on a white Bible. Maid of honor was Vesta Maughn, Boise. Daniel Dunham, Boise, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the Round Room of the Blue Lakes Country Club.

Young actresses blooms

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There is a new cadre of exceedingly beautiful actresses in movies today — comparable to the Lana Turner, Betty Grable era — who are as wonderfully esthetic as butterflies and equally fragile. Like the butterfly they are short-lived.

Ten, fifteen years is their allotted time in the shaft of light that springs from the projection booth to the screen. It is also their life span in the web of glamor, parties, public adoration and handsome rich men.

Class of '71
The class of 1971 includes Ali McGraw, Jacqueline Bisset, Candy Bergen, Catherine Ross, Jo Ann Pflug and Jennifer O'Neill.

They make matrons of Jane Fonda, Mia Farrow, Brigitte Bardot, Raquel Welch, Sophia Loren and Shirley Maclaine. The latter may be splendid actresses or sex symbols but the bloom is off the peach.

Doubtless the class of 1981 will consist of girls just approaching their teens as of this moment and our current crop had better have learned to act by then or face the inevitability of matronhood themselves.

One of the most beautiful of the newcomers, and perhaps the best actress of the lot, is Jennifer O'Neill, who was featured in "Summer of '42."

She also appeared in "Rio Lobo," "Such Good Friends" and is now starring in "A Case of Need."

The brief life span of the beautiful actress has crossed Jennifer's mind, although she does not dwell on it.

LINDA STROUD

Winter date set

BLISS — Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stroud, Bliss, announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Louise, to Pete Etchart Jr., son of Mrs. Antonia Etchart, Bliss.

A winter wedding is planned. She is a tall girl, 5 feet, 7 inches, with an oriental cast to her eyes, even features and a full, sensuous mouth. At 24, her hair is flecked with gray. She is divorced and the mother of Aimee, 4.

The time element allotted leading ladies is absurd, said Jennifer at MGM. "You have to be a success by 30 or you've had it."

It's even worse for models. Their careers are over at 30. "I began modeling when I was 15, doing high fashions for sophisticated magazines."

DEAR ABBY: I was married at 16, and 13 months later I gave birth to a baby boy. When he was four months old I divorced my husband for a very good reason, and moved back with my parents. I've supported myself and my baby since I was 18.

I am now 21 and very much in love with a 25-year-old fellow I met at work. He's crazy about my son, says he loves me and wants to marry me, but there is a problem. I met his parents who seemed to like me, but his mother wants to see proof of my divorce. She told her son that she has a "funny feeling" that I was never married.

Abby, I have documented proof of my divorce but as a matter of principle I refuse to prove anything to her. She can think whatever she wants to think. My boyfriend is begging me to show her the proof and get it over with. What should I do? DIVORCED AND NO LIAH

DEAR DIVORCED: Nothing. If his mother has a "funny feeling" you were never married, let her try to prove it.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a letter cut out of your column several years ago, which is so very timely I would like to see it reprinted in your column.

As a mother of a teen-ager I know how easy it is to be critical of today's teen-agers (particularly with the hassle so many of us have with our children over their long hair).

We need to be reminded of the importance of relating to our young people and making them feel welcome in our homes. Will you please print it again? HARRISBURG, PA

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy anymore. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch TV, or just to talk, or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't want to stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teen-agers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because if you keep driving, you get to speeding, just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together and home is our favorite spot. If only we were made to feel welcome.

DEAR ABBY: I am a beauty operator, and every Christmas my steady customers give me Christmas gifts, most of which I can't use. I am really touched by their generosity, but if they only knew how much more I would appreciate the cash instead.

I don't want to come off sounding grabby, but some of my customers spend $10 or more on some useless little doodad which I either put away until I have a garage sale, or find someone to give it to.

I wish these nice people would realize that they wouldn't insult me if they gave me a dollar or two instead. It would save them the trouble of shopping and gift wrapping, and we'd both be happier.

Most of the operators I work with feel exactly the same about the gifts they get. Thanks for letting me sound off, Abby. All my customers read your column, so maybe if you print this, next year things will be different. Thanks, pal. BEAUTY OPERATOR

DEAR OPERATOR: Your letter makes sense. Next year may bring you a "green" Christmas. Good luck.

Mother and baby care course set

TWIN FALLS — Parents and prospective parents in the Twin Falls area will begin a six-week Red Cross Mother and Baby Care course Jan. 10 at 7:15 p.m. Red Cross chapter officials have announced.

There is no charge for the course and prospective mothers and fathers are urged to participate. Subject material ranges from marriage and maternal needs and care through the baby's first year. Important information on such matters as hospital admission and inspection of delivery and maternity units in the hospital are covered in the course. Classes are held in the second floor conference room of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and persons planning to attend must be present to register either the first or second week of the program.

Instructors are Gigi Erdösa, Phyllis Wagner, Delores Sims, Ann Warner and Kathy Stephenson, all registered nurses. Films, pamphlets and other study material will be provided during the six class sessions. Hazel Wilder, Red Cross public relations officer, said another such course will begin April 10.

MARTY ORTEGA
437 3rd Ave. S. Twin Falls

LAZY SUSAN'S WALNUT CAKE
3 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
1 cup shortening
4 medium eggs, unbeaten
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup very finely chopped walnuts

FRUIT GLAZE
Combine two tablespoons white corn syrup and two tablespoons butter or margarine in small saucepan. Bring to boil, boil three minutes, brush over cake. Decorate with slivered citron and candied cherries, pressing gently in place.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease and line a 9-inch tube pan with waxed paper (or grease and flour the pan instead of using waxed paper in the bottom).

Sift the first four ingredients together into a large mixer bowl. Add shortening, two eggs, pour in milk and vanilla. Beat two minutes with electric mixer at medium speed, scraping bowl and beaters as necessary. Add two eggs beat two minutes longer.

Fold in nuts, pour into pan and bake one hour or until done. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan, peel off paper, cool on rack. Then brush with fruit glaze. To mix cake by hand, beat briskly with spoon for same time periods as with mixer, allowing 150 full, round-the-bowl strokes.

Drank to death

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Friends of Robert Majors, 25, doubted his claim at a party New Year's Day that he could drain a fifth of scotch in one drink. Majors and his audience went out on the front lawn of the house, where he drank nearly an entire bottle of whisky without lowering it from his lips. Then he staggered into the house, collapsed and died. He was pronounced dead at a hospital.

A Position On No-Fault

The Idaho Association of Independent Insurance Agents, Inc. represents the largest group of property-casualty insurance producers in the State of Idaho, and as such, its members come in contact with the largest segment of the insurance buying public. Based on these contacts, the Association announces a position on an automobile reparations or No-Fault program for the State of Idaho.

We have studied all of the No-Fault or automobile reparations plans being offered locally or nationally. WE BELIEVE THAT IDAHO SHOULD NOT ADOPT AN EXPERIMENTAL AUTO INSURANCE PROGRAM UNTIL MORE FACTS AND EXPERIENCE ARE GAINED BY OTHER STATES.

We believe in some cases the whole truth of the no-fault plans has not been told.

DO YOU KNOW THAT UNDER SOME NO-FAULT PLANS

- If your auto (with collision coverage and $100.00 deductible clause) is parked properly in front of your home and it is hit by another vehicle causing $200.00 worth of damage, that you will have to pay the first $100.00 of the repair bill?
- That the 25% savings you are being promised will amount to approximately $12.00 a year on each car that you insure?

Regardless of how reckless or careless the other party may be, you will not have your inherent right to sue for damages?

That the high cost of automobile insurance today is more attributable to unsafe highways, poorly manufactured autos, drunken drivers, habitual offenders and high auto repair bills than anything else? None of these ills will be corrected through a no-fault program.

DON'T BE PUSHED into a no-fault representative of Senator before the Legislature for the 2nd Regular Session of 1973. January 10, 1972.

For more information, contact Mr. Frank Riley, I.A.L.E.A. Rm. 125, First National Bank Building, Boise, 83702, telephone no. 342-2511, or your local independent insurance agent displaying this symbol.

Educational counseling center opens in T.F.

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Many students who consider themselves failures in school can be helped with the proper motivation and encouragement, if they can break the pattern of reinforcing the concept of failure.

That is the philosophy of a highly dedicated educator, Mrs. Virginia M. Riggs, director of the Twin Falls office of Ebronix, a Boise-based, nationwide educational counseling organization.

Mrs. Riggs has re-opened the Ebronix at 270 Falls Ave. W. in Twin Falls, and plans a grand opening today. She has received intensive training in the philosophy of Ebronix in the Boise headquarters before her assignment to Twin Falls.

Mrs. Riggs feels strongly about the direction American education is taking, and is devoting her life to helping students who may consider themselves failures. She lived and worked in Berkeley, Calif., for a number of years and has seen the "three R's" of traditional education grow into a more humanistic approach, and many other areas the concept of structured, formal education has been completely discarded.

Only recently, Mrs. Riggs received a letter from a Berkeley friend who said that the Berkeley school board has instructed teachers to dismiss any students who wish to participate in riots or demonstrations, "without penalty."

A sister living in Twin Falls told her about this area, and she moved here to find a more congenial atmosphere.

Mrs. Riggs has a more personal reason to be concerned with the education of troubled children. When twin girls were born about 20 years ago, one of the girls, Barbara, was found to be totally deaf. The shock, Mrs. Riggs recalls, was enormous; her personal readjustment staggering.

"I had taught all my life, and enjoyed reading, music, and education. Suddenly, we had a young life with no reading, no music and an entirely different kind of education. She had to start all over again, learn the sign language of the deaf, and try to reclaim this young, fragile life."

She succeeded — Barbara has received her bachelor's degree in education at the Gallaudet College for the Deaf in Washington, D.C., and is working toward her master's. She is an accomplished computer programmer, working with computerized education for deaf students.

Barbara has had a rich, full life, including a period of working with native Ibo tribesmen in Africa, helping deaf and handicapped African children to adjust to a "strange and terrifying world. Her twin sister, Judy, an accomplished obstetrical nurse, worked with Barbara in the "bush," learning African midwifery and helping native women.

In developing the philosophy of Ebronix, Mrs. Riggs explains that "Many students who have problems in school consider themselves failures. Their failure concept is reinforced by continued failure. They may drop out of school and refuse to continue on to college."

However, she insists that "Learning can be fun. Students can become success-oriented, and those with learning problems can be helped."

Ebronix works with that goal in mind. Through careful analysis of learning problems, a student's difficulties can be determined. Carefully guided tutoring by the center's staff of educational experts, together with counseling to smooth out the rough spots, guides the student toward success.

Ebronix utilizes electronics extensively in the process. A remarkable electronic device known as the "KSR," invented specifically for the job by an electronics expert attached to the Boise headquarters, helps determine a student's level of achievement and pinpoints problems with amazing accuracy.

Mrs. Riggs will analyze the student's problems with the help of the KSR, plotting a "profile" which indicates whether he can be helped and how much. With the proper outline of his problems in hand, Mrs. Riggs can often guarantee to raise the student a specific number of educational levels, akin to grades in school, over a specific period of time.

"We don't have all the answers," she admits, "but we can help provide many of the answers. We can't guarantee all students, but we try to help all."

Basically, Ebronix "determines where the youngster is educationally, when he comes to us, where he should be, and how we can help him arrive at his goal," Mrs. Riggs said.

Her associates in the Ebronix Learning Center include Mrs. Darlene Ohlenschlaeger of Jerome, a teacher and educational specialist. Her staff includes a specialist in learning disabilities, and an "amazingly talented" CSI student, Robert Holland, who is becoming an expert on the psychology of learning.

Holland, though still a student, has written a test on the behavioral problems of children. He serves as a consultant on troubled youngsters for the Ebronix center.

Mrs. Riggs

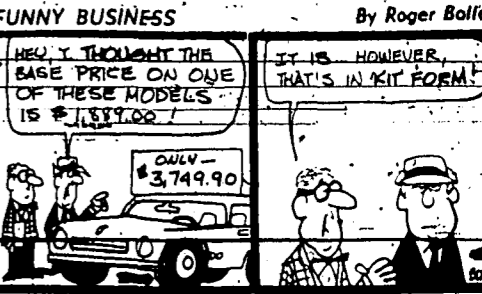

In one instance, he devised a psychological test specifically for a single troubled youngster in an attempt to determine his problems.

A staff of tutors works with the youngsters in their own homes where possible. The home environment is essential, especially in helping reading problems, since the youngster would not be as disrupted when the tutoring ends if he has studied at home, Mrs. Riggs explained.

There is no transition period and no dependency on the center when the youngster reads at home," the director said. Some programs are tutored at the center where the equipment is available, such as math.

Ebronix facilities are open to all ages of children, from first grade through the 12th, and to non-reading adults. Principals, teachers and parents are invited to tour the Ebronix center, where staff members will be glad to explain the goals of Ebronix and will demonstrate the learning equipment.

Summing up her philosophy, Mrs. Riggs says that "The love of learning is a lifetime achievement and companion which no misfortune can erase."

Outlook for street improvement better in '72, TF manager says

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Cities in Idaho, long plagued by financial difficulties in street maintenance programs, have a brighter outlook in 1972, City Manager Jean Milar, Twin Falls, said in reviewing street plans here.

The one cent per gallon gasoline tax earmarked by the past session of the Idaho legislature for city street improvement will mean an additional $200,000 in Twin Falls, Milar said.

Streets in nearly all Idaho cities, Twin Falls included, have been deteriorating over the past one or two decades because the high cost of maintenance and repair and the limited revenue available for such work, Milar said.

He said a special study committee appointed from members of the city council by Mayor Frank Feldman has come up with a number of recommendations which will be presented for review by the 1972 city council.

Among possibilities, he said, is the plan for establishing a self-sustaining street program. Major improvements and reconstruction would be handled under contract instead of by city work forces and equipment, leaving these to work full time on maintenance and repair. Over a period of years, if the gas tax fund is retained for cities, streets should show a marked improvement, Milar said.

The current winter has been exceptionally hard on street surfaces, Milar said, but so have the past several. Continuing moisture with alternate freezing and thawing temperatures have already taken a toll on heavily traveled streets, he said. Some temporary repair may be necessary, such as filling holes with gravel. This is purely expedient as long as wet weather continues and cold weather recurs. Permanent patching will not be possible until spring.

This year's heavy amounts of snow have also kept street equipment on a busy schedule with snow removal.

The city of Twin Falls owns only one snow plow, Milar said. This is a "V" blade mounted on a heavy duty truck. It is used at the city county airport to keep the runways clear of snow.

On city streets, road graders double as snow plows on the rare occasions when they are needed, Milar said it would be foolish to invest large sums in snow removal equipment in a city where only about once in five to 10 years it is necessary to clear streets and haul snow away.

In the event of light snow fall of one to three inches, the most frequent type snow storm in Twin Falls, traffic packs the snow and streets become icy. Intersections are sanded and salted. Salt is used on those where traffic is sufficiently heavy to work the salt into snow and ice for melting. Gravel is applied on those where traffic is lighter but where vehicles must stop for through traffic.

For the first time in two years, the street department has plowed streets this year. Two storms have been sufficient to require snow plowing operations, Milar said.

Year of mouse Strong as never...

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Nikolai V. Podgorny, in a New Year's message to the nation, said today the Soviet Union entered 1972 "strong as never before."

Speaking at midnight over radio and television, the 68-year-old leader wished the Soviet people good health, joy and great successes in work and study.

TOKYO (UPI) — Temple bells tolled 108 times throughout Japan Saturday to greet the Year of the Mouse.

Bronze bells cast centuries ago were struck during the night in temples throughout Japan to drive away the 108 sins.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato told his 104 million people that Japan and China probably will establish relations in 1972, thus ending a state of hostility which has prevailed since Japanese armies marched through China in the 1930s.

"I sincerely hope to see diplomatic relations between the two nations resumed this year," the leader of Japan's conservative government told his New Year's news conference.

TF caps year by electing woman Insurance plan 'misunderstood'

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls capped 1971 by electing the city's first woman to the city council with Ann Cover to begin serving a four year term in 1972.

The city also re-elected one councilmember, Winston Jones, and added two young men, Michael P. Gray and Dr. Stephen R. Lincoln to the council.

Major city improvements included reconstruction of the old runway at the Twin Falls City-County airport.

Although a regional airport district was approved in the area, Twin Falls city and county residents voted the issue down.

Other 1971 action in Twin Falls included the start of the second and last phase of the downtown renovation program. With new streets now in use as a result of the first phase, alleys and parking lots will be beautified and improved but completion of the project will not take place until sometime in 1972.

The city is looking toward new sewage treatment improvements in the coming year and a major street program which will see many of the heavily used streets brought up to higher standards. Reconstruction of the West Five Points intersection is also anticipated in the coming year, and city officials have joined state and county authorities in the hope for a new Perrine Bridge over the Snake River.

BOISE — The controversial no-fault insurance concept has been grossly misunderstood in the area of supposed savings on premiums, according to an Idaho group of insurance agents.

The Idaho Association of Independent Insurance Agents has recommended that any legislation authorizing no-fault automobile insurance in Idaho be delayed until more details are available from states where it is in the experimental stage.

Of the plans offered, none have been in effect long enough to prove conclusively that a no-fault program will reduce premiums, according to the association's board of directors.

The point is, the directors said today, that the claims of reduced premiums apply only to a portion of the total insurance bill — usually the bodily injury or property damage portions.

As an example, a mythical "Mr. Jones," living in Boise, is paying $300 per year for insurance on a 1972 car, broken down as follows:

- Bodily injury, $36; property damage, $32; medical payments, $9; comprehensive, $105; collision (with deductible), $122; and uninsured drivers, $4.

Depending on the no-fault insurance plan contemplated, Mr. Jones would be told that he would save "20 to 40 per cent" on his insurance costs. However, this would apply only to the smaller items in the overall costs — taking an average savings of 25 per cent, and applying it to the bodily injury portion, $36, the savings would be $9 per year.

If applied to property damage, costing $32 per year, the 25-per cent saving would save $8, giving a total savings of only $17. For that $17, the driver is giving up all rights to sue the other driver regardless of his liability.

"Idaho should continue to study all plans available; but at this time, legislation relative to this problem should be deferred," the directors said.

Premiums should be reduced through legislation intended to eliminate poorly manufactured vehicles, unsafe highways, habitual offenders and drunken drivers. A no-fault bill will do nothing to improve these areas," the directors said.

Several studies begun past year

TWIN FALLS — Groundwork for a number of major improvements in Twin Falls County took place in 1971, including an extensive solidwaste study and a feasibility study for a new city-county law enforcement complex.

Renovation of the county jail, which could be the first step toward long range plans for a new law enforcement building began in December.

The county also participated in the regional airport election which was voted down in the county and in the reconstruction of the city-county airport runway.

R. P. Paschke, consultant, completed a study for the county and did a solid waste study which calls for combining the city's sanitary and all with a county-wide collection system.

This is under consideration for the coming year.

Harbor House began construction of a new building, nearing completion and Adolph Coors Co., Golden Colo., is contemplating a new grain facility in Buhl.

Veteran Assessor Clifford Thompson went on inactive duty because of ill health with Ron Taylor, Kimberly assuming the new duties.

County officials are looking forward to improved and expanded park facilities after completion of the Balanced Rock Park and to other development.

The sale of wine in grocery stores, which opened in by county residents in 1971 and the new court reform system, bringing some problems but officials say more improvements, went into effect in the county.

Dallas contains 49'ers 14-3 to reach Super Bowl

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys converted a big first half turnover and a time-consuming 30-yard second half drive kept alive by Roger Staubach's scrambling runs and passes to surge into Super Bowl VI with a 14-3 victory over the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Calvin Hill and Duane Thomas blasted the final one yard each of the touchdowns which gave the Cowboys their ninth straight victory, their second straight National Football Conference championship and a ticket to New Orleans to meet the American Conference champion Jan. 16.

But, it was a stunning interception by defensive end George Andrie of an attempted John Brodie screen pass to Ken Willard at the Forty Niners' 10-yard line which set up Hill's second period TD.

And, it was Staubach's 17-yard pass to Danny Reeves while scrambling all over the field deep in his own territory, his eighth yard run on another scramble and a 22-yard pass from Staubach to tight end Billy Truax that kept alive the long second half drive which ate up 7 minutes, 35 seconds of the third and fourth quarters.

The Cowboys had a chance to put some icing on their $8,500 slices of NFL Championship cake when Lee Roy Jordan picked off a Brodie pass and ran it back to the San Francisco eight yard line with 2:21 left in the game. But the Forty Niner defense, which has proven a thorny problem for Dallas all afternoon, rose up with the aid of a penalty and spotted the bid when linebacker Frank Nunley blocked Mike Clark's 25-yard field goal with 1:28 left.

The Forty Niners, who didn't get across mid field until the third quarter, had to settle for a 22-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett with 6:52 gone in the second half for their only points.

Brodie was driving the Western Division champs toward the Cowboy goal in the fading moments but Cowboy safety Cliff Harris stole a pass at the five yard line with one second left to snuff out that threat.

Staubach, under tremendous pressure from defensive end Cedrick Hardman all afternoon, managed to complete 9 of 18 passes for 103 yards and also was the Cowboys' leading rusher with 55 yards on 8 scrambles.

Brodie, who had suffered 24 interceptions during the season and had another rough afternoon Sunday, hit 14 of 30 passes for 184 yards. Gene Washington and Ted Kwalick each caught four of Brodie's passes for 140 of those yards.

The San Francisco front four of Hardman and Tommy Hart at the ends and veteran Charlie Krueger and Earl Edwards inside, spent much of the afternoon in the Cowboy backfield as they managed to fairly well nullify the Cowboys running attack.

The Cowboys lost the services of Hill in the second quarter and that cut down on the Cowboys' great rushing potential. Walt Garrison came off the bench to fill in, however, and pressed Staubach for rushing honors with 52 yards in 14 carries. Thomas picked up 44 yards in 15 trips.

The Dallas defense, the best in the NFC against the high-powered offense of the Forty Niners might have had and thereby forced Brodie to go to the air. Vic Washington led the San Francisco ground attack with 68 yards.

Neither side was able to move the ball much in the first quarter although the Cowboys did drive to the Forty Niner 41-yard line on their first possession, only to have Clark miss a 48-yard field goal effort.

Early in the second quarter, Forty Niner safety Johnny Fuller returned a Dallas punt from his own 25 to the 27 but a clipping penalty set the Forty Niners back to their own 12 and set the stage for Dallas' first touchdown.

Vic Washington picked up two yards on the first play of the series, then Brodie took two steps back and fired a quick pass into his left flat toward Ken Willard. The ball, however, hit Andrie in the chest. He held on and lumbered to the San Francisco two-yard line. Hill dove over on the second play for a 7-0 lead.

Fuller returned a Dallas punt from his own 25 to the 27 but a clipping penalty set the Forty Niners back to their own 12 and set the stage for Dallas' first touchdown.

West Coast football regains luster after Stanford victory

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — West Coast football regained some of its luster today as a result of Stanford University's 12-12 thriller in defeating Big Ten champion Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

It was the third straight win for a Pacific 8 team and the second in a row for the Indians. Not since the closed Rose Bowl agreement between the Pacific Coast and the Big Ten taken in 1947 has a Coast team started three in a row.

There were heroes in abundance for Stanford, which trailed 10-3 after two minutes of the fourth period. There was quarterback Don Buncie who was named Player of the Game for his passing and field generalship.

But he had to share the accolades for the victory with Jackie Brown, who on two brilliant plays, drew the Indians even with Michigan. And sophomore kicking specialist Rod Garcia produced the game-winning margin on a 31-yard field goal with 12 seconds to play.

For three periods the game was a desperate struggle with the score tied 3-3. Then the fireworks began.

"I didn't think they could cut off our running game like that but they did," commented Michigan's rushing star Billy Taylor, who carried the ball 32 times, just two short of the Rose Bowl record set by Stanford's Ernie Nevers in 1924.

Stanford deserved to win, coach Bo Schembechler of the Wolverines added. "I don't think this loss spoils our season."

Michigan played the type of game expected of them as the Wolverines controlled the ball and ran off 74 plays to Stanford's 23 and gained 264 yards rushing to the Indians 93

Michigan made only 28 yards passing.

But Buncie alone accounted for 254 yards with his passes as he completed 24 of 44 attempts.

After Fritz Seyferth scored at 1:39 of the fourth period to climax a 71-yard march, it looked like curtains for Stanford.

Two key plays by Brown on a 67-yard thrust got the Indians even at 10-10. One of these was a 31-yard run by Brown from a fake punt in which fullback Reggie Sanderson took the snap and then handed off to Brown between his legs. And Brown scored on a 24-yard dash over guard when Michigan tried a blitz.

Michigan went ahead 15-10 on a controversial safety when Jim Ferguson tried to run a short field goal attempt out of the end zone and was tackled by Ed Shuttlesworth behind the goal line. Ferguson and some observers felt he had crossed the goal line and was forced back by the Michigan player.

But the controversy lost its steam when Buncie, in the closing minute, completed five out of six passes to move the Indians from their 21 to the Michigan 14.

That was when Garcia came forward and kicked the game-winning 31-yard field goal with 12 seconds left.

Gooding vs Buhl heads cage slate

The Gooding Senators defending state A-2 champions and, with only one exception, untested this year, lead off the 1972 conference title races Tuesday night by invading Buhl where the Indians, if they are on, could provide one of the few battles that Gooding has left on its schedule.

That game highlights a four-game schedule that will send Castledorf to Kimberly, Hansen to Oakley and Declo to Raft River.

Miami enters Super Bowl by blanking Colts 21-0

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—The cinderella Miami Dolphins played a rash of big plays into a 21-0 triumph over the Baltimore Colts Sunday to earn a Super Bowl date with the Dallas Cowboys.

The victory over the defending world champions gave the six-year old Dolphins the American Football Conference title and set up the meeting with the Cowboys, who beat San Francisco, 14-3, earlier in the day, to win the NFC in New Orleans Jan. 16.

All three Dolphin touchdowns were the result of big plays. Miami scored its first touchdown on a 75-yard bomb from Bob Griese to Paul Warfield with 6:39 remaining in the first period; their second on a 62-yard pass interception return by Dick Anderson with 4:39 remaining in the third period and on a five-yard plunge by Larry Csonka midway through the final period after Griese and Warfield had connected on a 50-yard pass.

In addition, the Dolphins held on downs at their own eighty yard line, blocked a 35-yard field goal attempt and intercepted a total of three Johnny Unitas passes; as time and time again they blunted Baltimore's offensive efforts.

The crowd of 78,629, at the Orange Bowl, largest ever to watch a Dolphin game in Miami, went wild at the game's end and police had to use dogs to chase hordes of teen-agers away from the goal posts and off the artificial turf.

It was the first time the Colts had been shut out since Chicago turned that trick more than six years ago.

The victory gave the Dolphins a 2-1 edge over Baltimore this year, having beaten the Colts 17-14 here in the Orange Bowl and losing, 14-3, at Baltimore.

Except for the 75-yard touchdown pass, Baltimore pretty well dominated the first half. The Colts got within scoring range on four occasions in the first two periods but Jim O'Brien was short on two field goal attempts in the first period and then there was that goal line stand and blocked field goal attempt in the second period. The Dolphins' only offensive effort in the first half was wrapped up in that one 75-yard play which came on a second-and-five situation when Baltimore obviously was looking for a run.

Griese, who completed only two passes in the first half, found Warfield wide open at mid-field and the speedy receiver had little trouble outrunning Baltimore Safety Rick Volk the remainder of the distance.

The outcome of the game, however, remained very much in doubt until, late in the third period when Curtis Johnson deflected a Unitas pass to Eddie Hinton pass into the hands of Anderson at the Miami 38-yard line and the Dolphin safety, with good blocks by Jim Foley and Doug Swift, twisted and turned to the Dolphins' second touchdown.

Baltimore came charging back on the passing of Unitas but Jake Scott picked off an aerial intended for Hinton at the Miami 26 as the period ended. The Dolphins appeared content to ground out the ball and run down the clock but caught Baltimore unaware with Griese's 50-yarder to Warfield carrying to the Colt five-yard line and setting up the final touchdown.

The Dolphins gave the game ball to Anderson.

Miami coach Don Shula, former coach of the Colts, said that Griese called both of the bombs to Warfield himself.

But Griese said "the defense really won it for us."

Pete Rozelle admits NFL club owners are given lie detector tests on gambling

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League acknowledged Sunday that he has given lie detector tests to club owners in regard to gambling on professional football games.

In an interview on CBS-TV's "Issues and Answers," Rozelle, who has previously given lie detector tests and fined and suspended players for gambling, said that the tests were not restricted just to players but also the owners. Rozelle stated further that the tests concerning the owners established to the satisfaction of the league any wrongdoing concerning owners' gambling. "If an owner were proven guilty of gambling," Rozelle continued, "according to the league rules he would be expelled from the NFL."

Rozelle repeated his denouncement of off-track betting being expanded to include all sports especially football where wagering is considered widespread.

"No amount of money given to the football teams etc. could justify legalizing betting on football games," Rozelle said. "As things stand now you have the states in partnership with the tracks. Would that mean the states could give urinalysis tests and other things like that to athletes?"

"I don't ever want to see the day when a whole new generation of fans exist which will sit in a stadium and boo a home team for sitting on a four-point lead and not covering the point spread."

Commenting on the recent televised NFL games on Christmas Day, Rozelle said "There was no way we could avoid that."

"We were cut by the calendar," Rozelle said. "If we were to manipulate the schedule to exclude Christmas games, teams would not have had sufficient preparation, late afternoon games would have resulted and nearly everyone would have been inconvenienced, there was, however, no monetary bearing on it since our TV contract has two more years to run."

On the subject of drugs and professional football, Rozelle admitted that there were probably players taking "greenies" or "pep pills" before games but that the practice "was not widespread."

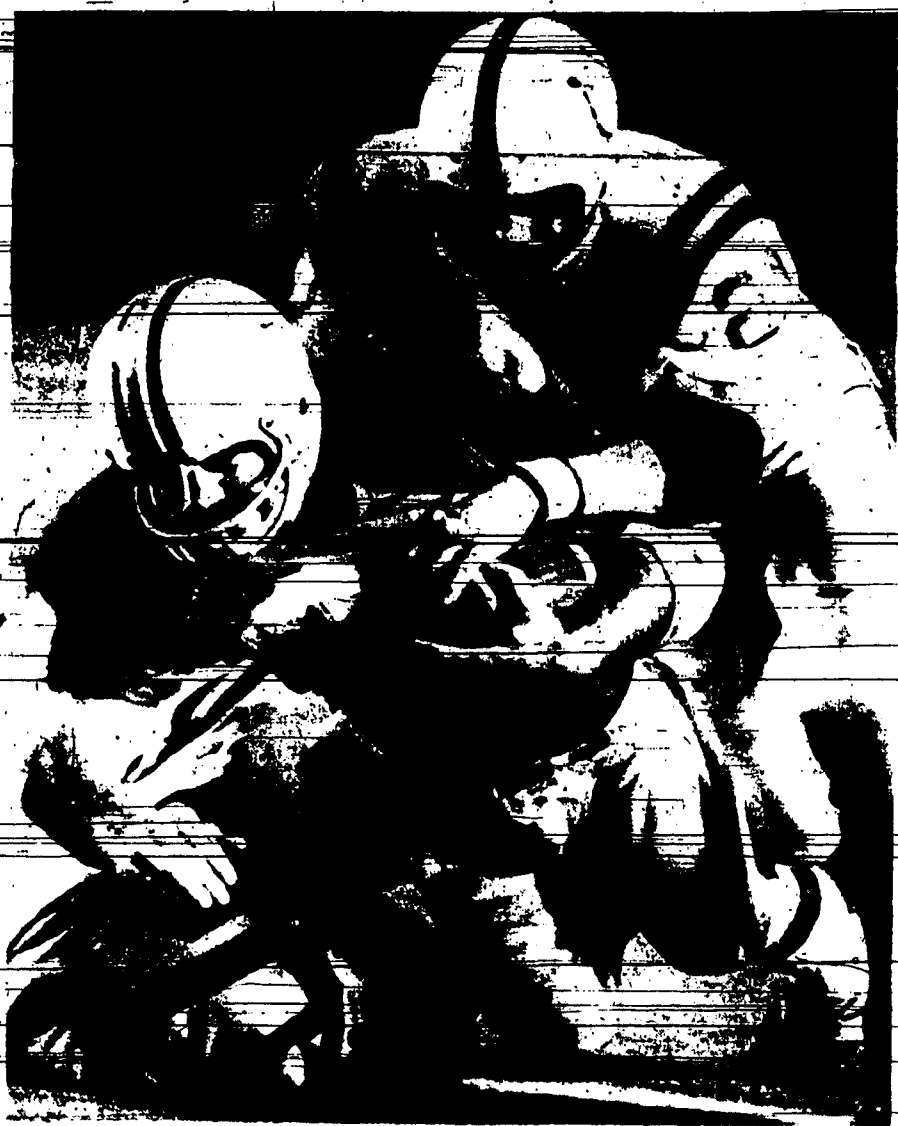

Rozelle said also that there were no set league standards concerning drugs because of the dangers involved in disciplinary actions. "Disciplinary action only serves to discourage a player admitting he has used drugs and you can see the dangers involved here if the player must undergo anesthesia after a game or something. If it were not known he had used a drug, death could even be a possibility," the commissioner pointed out.

"Instead, we have set up local counsel physicians to deal with the problem in consultation with trainers and team officials," Rozelle said.

Asked about the latest criticisms from players about artificial turf, Rozelle said studies were still underway concerning its pros and cons. "It will take quite a few more years yet to fully determine whether artificial turf is the best solution in the long run for football. We are not only studying the amount of injuries that are either prevented or caused by it but also the degree of injuries—abrasions—versus more serious etc."

Finally Rozelle predicted that no NFL team would be moved out of its current territory. "The New York Giants may be moving to New Jersey and the Detroit Lions to a similar neighboring sight," Rozelle said.

Rosewall makes finals of meet

MELBOURNE, Australia, (UPI)—Defending Champion Ken Rosewall will meet Mal Anderson, No. 8 seed, in Monday's final of the Australian Open Tennis Championships at Kooyong Courts.

Rosewall, 37, and Anderson, 36, could qualify for the veterans singles in three and four years respectively.

It is the first time, according to officials, that such aged players will meet at the final of a major national title—indeed its reflection on the standard of tennis down under.

Sunday Anderson, the one-time Queensland cowboy who turned professional in 1958 and quit a decade later, made one of the greatest comebacks in tennis history when he swept aside Russian champion Alex Metreveli 6-2, 7-6, 7-6 in a magnificent 33 minute semifinal.

Nearly 2,500 fans, an all-time record for a semifinal international match at Kooyong courts, clapped and cheered both men for their achievements.

Later Rosewall, the world professional champion, scored an unimpressive 7-6, 6-1, 7-6, 6-2 win over rookie professional Alan Stone to get his chance at his fourth national crown. Rosewall won his first title in 1953, 19 years ago, when he defeated Mervyn Rose.

He beat Rex Hartwig in four sets in 1955 and at White City last year gained his triple title when he ousted Arthur Ashe.

But it was Anderson's day Sunday. He started very nervously, unsure of his ground strokes but he volleyed well and throughout his semifinal with metrevelli they exchanged some magnificent lobbing duels.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market was higher but below earlier levels after more than three hours of trading Monday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up 3.11 to 892.31 at 1 p.m. while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index eased 0.11 to 101.96. Of 1,515 issues on the tape, advances held a good lead over declines, 826 to 533.

Helping bolster the flat was a Commerce Department report showing factory orders rose 4.1 per cent in November, with manufacturers' shipments also showing a good gain. Inventories were fairly stable, according to the department.

Analysts said they expected no great movements in either direction in the market in the near future. One analyst, Harry Laubscher, said he expected a slide in the Dow, a move he said would be "healthy" for the market as it consolidated its gains of the past weeks.

General Motors, well up on the active list, lost 4. Federal National Mortgage "when issued" and common stock also made the active. Both were on the plus side.

Among the movers of a point or more were Walt Disney and Xerox, each off 1 1/4. Bausch & Lomb down 1 1/4, Honeywell off 1 1/4, IBM off 1 1/4 and Superior Oil off 1/4. Missouri Pacific and General Dynamics gained more than a point apiece.

Steels were firm, motors lower. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Airlines and electronics moved lower.

Jim: "Your use of 'should' implies that South went down. I assume he tried the spade finesse at trick two and that after taking his king, East was smart enough to lead a low diamond away from his ace."

Oswald: "That's exactly what happened. East could

Jim: "If South had taken time to think at trick two he would have led a club toward dummy and set up a discard for dummy."

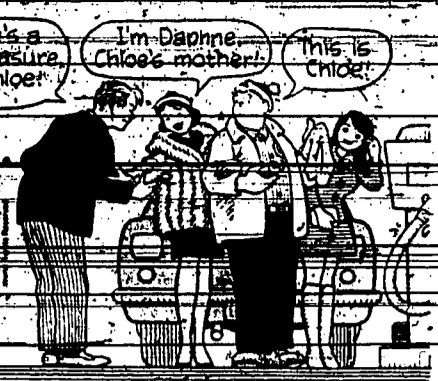

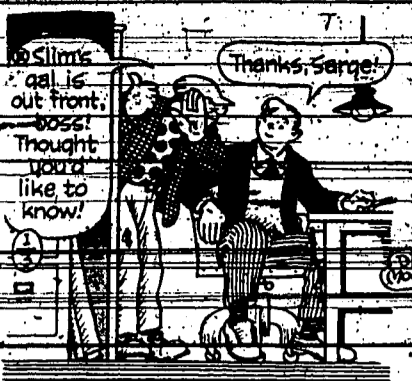

Oswald: "Fortunately for South, West had a normal opening lead of a heart."

"There's no reason why any child should lack a complete knowledge of life, since there is no censorship of drugstore windows."

Don Herold

WHEN TROUBLE crops up between you and your matrimonial mate, who do you talk to about it, if anybody? A clergyman? A social worker? Maybe some other relative? The sociology boys wanted to find out all about this, so they ran a survey in New York City. So they learned that professional people are the most frequent confidants, thereabouts is the neighborhood pharmacist. He's even a better listener, they claim, than the bartender.

MONEY IF HE HAS stepped for three years or more in a barracks, at any time in his life, he's not apt to wear pajamas to bed again thereafter. Such is the contention of the sleep researchers. Exceptions are rare, they say.

WEAKCHIN Do you put much stock in the elderly claim that a fellow with a receding chin tends to be weak? Neither do I. Still, numerous experts insist some facial characteristics indicate personality. Protruding blue eyes, for instance. Citizens with same are said to be highly excitable. If you want a placid and peaceful matrimonial partner, believers advise, dodge those prominent eyes of blue.

A LONDON BANK tests the eyes of its job applicants for color blindness. However, the only colors they need to distinguish are red and black. That's wise very wise.

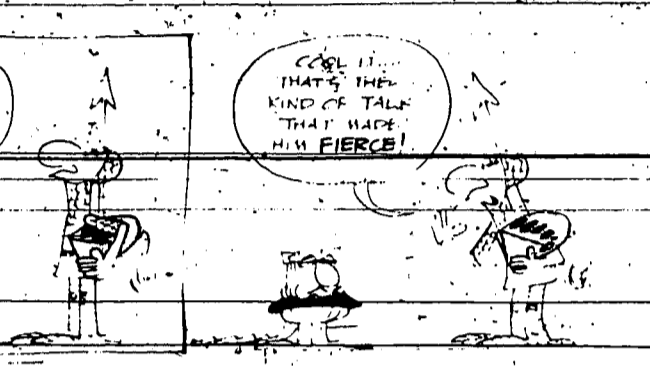

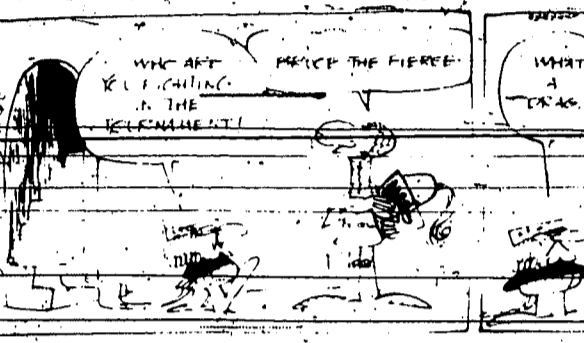

QUERY I wear glasses, my boyfriend doesn't know. Do you think I should tell him? A. Only if you suspect he may discover this intriguing piece of intelligence for himself some day. In that event, suggest you disclose the fact truthfully without them. And treat the matter in a light heart.

Troops under fire

By United Press International
Israeli troops on the occupied Golan Heights came under fire three times today, but there were no casualties and military officials described the incidents as minor.

The fire was not returned. Military sources said a number of shells were fired from Syrian territory at Israeli positions, followed by a burst of 82 mm mortar fire and a flurry of light weapons fire.

Authorities did not say if the fire came from guerrillas or Syrian Army troops.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat scheduled a series of meetings this week to put final touches to Egyptian strategy against Israel.

Sadat met with his military leaders Sunday, according to the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram. The paper said the meeting was the first of a series scheduled for this week.

Details of the meeting were not revealed.

Al Ahram said Sadat has asked his political advisers to prepare an assessment of the political aspects of the situation.

New Year's Day passed quietly in the Middle East despite Sadat's threat earlier to find a solution to the situation in 1971—either by war or peace.

He said late in the year that war was the only course but he would make one more try at a peaceful settlement.

Along the Suez Canal, all was quiet in the new year. UPI correspondent Ken Lucoff, visiting the front, said Egyptian and Israeli forces traded invitations for coffee and a joint swimming party.

Inflation factors present

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The factors that led to inflation in the past five years are still present despite economic controls imposed by President Nixon, two research organizations reported Sunday.

In separate papers, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce and the American Enterprise Institute cited declining worker production and increased government spending as two chief causes of the current inflationary cycle.

The council, in a report written by Eugene F. Rinta of its Washington research office, said that a third straight budget deficit of $20 billion under President Nixon and resurgent business activity could only lead to new inflationary pressures and the renewal of an inflation psychology among businessmen and consumers.

The fiscal 1971 deficit was $23.2 billion and the expected fiscal 1972 budget deficit is about $26 billion.

The Council report said recent economic trends such as a slowing in the rate of increase in the cost of living, higher orders for factory goods and unimproved housing starts are only temporary.

Associate business professor Martin Estey of the University of Pennsylvania wrote the analysis for the American Enterprise Institute for public policy research.

Estey said higher labor costs are generally blamed for a major contribution to the current inflation, but that "responsibility for the rise must be shared roughly equally by the pronounced and prolonged slowdown in productivity."

Sticky problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers predicted Sunday that 1972 would see "sharply declining unemployment." But a leading Democratic economist said that high joblessness would continue to be "a very sticky problem."

Herbert Stein, a member of the council since 1969 and the successor to Paul W. McCracken as chairman, said there was "no doubt" but that employment would rise during Phase II of Nixon's economic strategy.

Stein was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers" and Calbreath on NBC's "Meet the Press" news panel programs.

Stein said that the nation should not be satisfied with unemployment of even 5 per cent or 4 per cent.

"But we can't get below 5 per cent rapidly simply by pumping up the economy," Stein said. "To get below that figure significantly, we have to improve the labor market and training programs"—things he said the administration is attempting to do.

Judging tough on Pakistan War

By United Press International
Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said Sunday it still was difficult to judge whether the war with Pakistan was over. In Dacca, U.S. officials said they expected to make further contacts with Bangladesh government officials.

Mrs. Gandhi spoke before a rally organized in her honor by members of her ruling Congress Party in New Delhi to celebrate success in the 14-day war in which Indian troops defeated Pakistani troops.

Mrs. Gandhi warned her audience however that "it is difficult to say whether the war is over."

"There is a new threat every day," Mrs. Gandhi said, referring to statements made by Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. "On one day there is threat, on the other day there is the indication that there could be negotiations."

"In our opinion the situation needs constant watch and our army is alert and our people are united and prepared to face any eventuality," she said.

Bhutto announced he had ordered the government takeover of virtually all major industry not owned by foreign firms in a continuation of his campaign against the "22 families" who control most of Pakistan's wealth.

"There is now a peoples' government," Bhutto declared in a broadcast to the nation Sunday night. "It is a government of the people who are now masters of their destiny."

But he said the new arrangement would not affect foreign industries and investments. "It is our intention to have a happy blend of public and private industries," he said.

In Dacca, now the seat of the Bangladesh government, officials at the U.S. Consulate said Sunday they expected to have further contacts with the leaders of the new government.

The statement followed the first contact with the new government Saturday by Herbert Spivack, head of the U.S. consulate general in East Pakistan, who called Saturday on Bangladesh Foreign Minister Abdus Samad Azad for 30 minutes to convey his New Year's greetings.

U.S. officials declined to give any details of the meeting, but Bangladesh government sources said that Samad had requested that Spivack's government press for the release of Bengali nationalist leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman from captivity in West Pakistan and that the U.S. diplomat had said he would convey the request.

Castro starts 14th year

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro began his 14th year in power today, bolstered by success in foreign affairs during the past year but facing internal problems.

A Cuban radio broadcast monitored in Miami said thousands of workers would go into the fields to celebrate the anniversary of revolutionary victory, Jan. 1, 1958, by planting sugar cane for next year's crop and carrying out other agricultural tasks.

The former Christmas-New Year holidays have been canceled the past three years in favor of continued work to aid the island's ailing economy.

Proclaimed "the year of productivity," 1971 was, most notable for gains in foreign affairs.

Castro's visit to Chile, Peru and Ecuador in November and December signaled the end of the hemisphere isolation imposed in 1964 with diplomatic sanctions by the Organization of American States (OAS).

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's visit to Cuba in October demonstrated the smooth relationship Castro now has with the Soviet Union. Cuba's chief provider of economic and military aid equaled at $1.23 million a day.

The Castro government pursued a bold course in relations with the United States that would up with the seizure of two Miami-based cargo ships in December. Castro announced the shipper of one ship, naturalized U.S. citizen Jose Villa, will be tried as a spy.

Events on the island during the war included the decree of a new "anti-vagrancy" law, providing work-camp sentences up to two years for chronic absenteeism from work, and the jailing of poet Heberto Padilla who was freed after confessing to "counter-revolutionary" writings.

The year's sugar harvest was sizable but fell more than a millions tons short of the announced goal, and continuing fuel shortages forced nightly blackouts in Havana and other cities.

Mistletoe was regarded as sacred in ancient times.

Klassen starts as postal chief

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elmer T. "Ted" Klassen, a messenger boy who became a corporate president, officially takes over as postmaster general today determined to "improve mail service and reduce costs."

Klassen, 63, former president of American Can Corp., was deputy postmaster general for two years prior to his election to the board of governors of the revamped U.S. Post Service.

His fellow governors elected him postmaster general Dec. 7 to succeed Winton M. Blount.

Klassen planned to move from his Conway, Mass., farm Sunday to an apartment he keeps at the Watergate condominium, home of many top administration officials. His first working day will be Monday.

During a one-day trip here Dec. 16, Klassen gave a pep talk to postal regional managers, warning them he would not tolerate less than a full effort to improve service.

A 5-foot-4, 250-pound man with a no-nonsense air, Klassen told UPI in an interview then: "Our objective is to improve service and reduce costs. That's a very noble objective. I think some of it's been done and I think more of it can be done."

Reluctant to discuss details of how he will run the post office, Klassen talked instead of the need for him to communicate with the 720,000 employees of the post office, the world's third largest employer behind only General Motors and the Defense Department.

"We can't run this thing and make it effective until we can sell the people (employees) on the idea that it's good for them," he said, referring to the reorganization plan that made the post office a very independent government agency.

Klassen hopes to get higher salaries for post management—himself included—and says he will work closely with Congress which has retained control over such pay scales.

Cassia has floods, drownings, cleanup

BY GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Floods, drownings, airplane crashes and attempts to clean up — and deodorize — the local government highlighted Cassia County news for 1971.

It also was a year which saw the chief of police narrowly escape serious injury when he was shot in the head foiling a holdup attempt and the Cassia County school trustees involve themselves in a year-long struggle to find a school bond proposal to present to the electorate.

Rain in early January caused snow to melt, flooding Oakley, Malta and Albion. In Oakley the drug store basement was hard hit, along with many homes and business buildings. Streets were covered with water.

At Albion streets also were under water and most basements were flooded. In Malta the C and H Market and Kelsey Motel were flooded, while south of town highway crews dynamited a hole in the highway for flood water drainage.

The first week in January found Cassia County school trustees drafting a legislative bill to create school subdistricts for raising school bonds and levies. The bill was passed, following amendments by the legislature.

On Jan. 18 floods were back, filling Albion streets with 10 inches of water in front of the Old Buggy Inn. The AA Market store was filled with water and yards and basements were submerged for the second time in the year.

The water that left Albion through Marsh Creek flowed into Anderson Division Dam built in 1915. The dam washed out, leaving a 16-foot deep and 40-foot wide washout in the dam. Below the dam, eight homes were evacuated in the flood area, while roads and foot bridges were washed out.

The Half River Store was flooded with about three feet of water from Half River. Cassia Creek overflowed, leaving Main Street in Malta knee deep in water. Children made use of the water and used canoes and rafts for transportation.

In the latter part of January, District Judge Sheran Bellwood was honored by State Veterans of Foreign Wars and received the first annual Chase Clark Memorial Award for his long and distinguished career in the Idaho judiciary.

February saw George Forscher named to the interim committee for the regional airport, replacing Blaine Curtis, Burley, who resigned for health reasons. Forscher was later elected chairman of the interim regional airport board.

The Albion City Council announced on Feb. 9 that the old Albion Normal School campus was leased to the 'Old Oregon Trail Festival of the Arts, Inc.

E. R. Kelsey, Declo stockman, was honored at the Hall of Fame. He was listed as the oldest consigner at the annual ram sale at Filer.

The City of Rocks near Almo was picked as the site for the historic coin 'lo representing Idaho in a series of commemorative coins, representing historically significant spots in each of the 50 states.

Early in March the Albion Telephone Co. requested and received $875,000 from the Rural Electrification Administration for the installment of private lines and underground cables. Also in March Evan (De) Nelson was appointed Burley Factory Manager for Ore-Ida Foods, Inc.

April first saw the Cassia Memorial Hospital requesting bids for May 6 expansion of facilities. Mitchell Construction Co., Pocatello, won the contract for $792,000, and is presently at work on the construction.

The odor at the Swift Feed Yards, long the target of citizens' complaints, turned into something new as officials began spraying the yards with perfume to control the smell.

First Security Bank began repairing a building at the corner of East Main and Albion Avenue, the site of the firm's new bank. By year's end, the new structure was almost complete.

In April, more than 600 Rotary Club members conducted a convention in Burley.

On May 21, the bid of Mitchell Construction Co. of Pocatello in the amount of $218,328 was accepted for construction of a new National Guard Armory near the Burley Airport.

Early in June, William Roper, founder of the Roper Clothing Co. with stores throughout Idaho, died.

On June 8, the wreckage of an Air Force jet missing for eight months, was found on a mountain south of Oakley. Mountain Hoque Air Force Base crews spent several days removing wreckage from the site.

Residents of the county approved a school rezoning plan during June.

In mid-June, Burley-Rupert Beta Sigma Phi City Chapter conducted the state convention of the sorority.

Father's Day produced a major tragedy with eight persons drowning in the Oakley Reservoir. At year's end, the bodies of Robert Goodwin, 5, James Shepard, 44, and Raymond Moore, 60, all Oakley, were still missing. Recovered on the evening of the mishap were the bodies of Mrs. Annette Goodwin and her daughter, Tammy, 8. Bodies of other victims, Harold Dibble, Andrew Goodline, and Charles Qualls, were found in September.

Plans for a new office complex at Overland Avenue and 17th Street were announced July 2.

About 4,000 persons attended the City of Rocks Pageant on July 3 weekend. The event was arranged by the Cassia County Historical Society.

Early in August, Ted Kelsey, Burley civic leader, died following heart surgery.

In September, the Raft River Rural Electric Cooperative announced it is investigating the possibility of a thermal power plant near Bridge. The study was continuing at the end of 1971.

Seven hundred fifty Kiwanis members from Utah and Idaho attended a convention at Burley. Late in September, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Lt. R. Simplot officiated at the start-up of the secondary waste treatment facility constructed to serve the Simplot Company's plant at Burley. The location system cost $771,000.

Ore-Ida Foods also started its secondary waste treatment plant, for which plans were announced earlier in the year.

On Sept. 29 disaster struck Oakley again when a fire destroyed the only drugstore and newspaper in town. No one was injured in the blaze, which forced the postoffice next door to be evacuated for an hour.

On Oct. 6 the Burley city council announced federal funds had been approved for the expansion of the Burley Golf Course from the present nine holes to championship 18. On Oct. 18 a veterans section of the Gem Memorial Gardens was dedicated.

The Idaho State Grange annual meeting was held in Burley, along with the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation, Potato Growers of Idaho, the National Farmers Organization of Idaho and the National Potato Council.

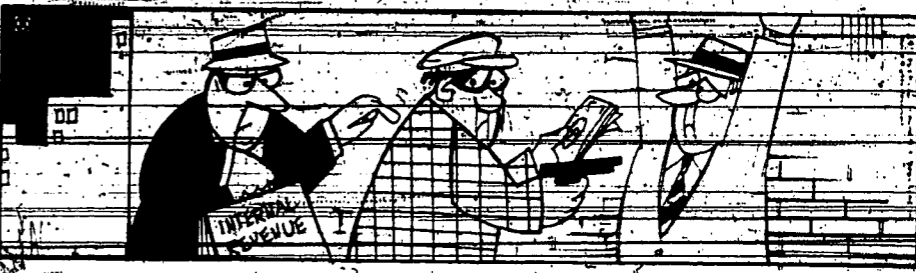

Cassia residents approved the regional airport by a vote of 818 to 451 in the balloting Oct. 26.

City elections the following week saw most incumbents returned to office. One exception was Rex Stanley, Burley, who was defeated by Cloyd Taylor for a city council seat.

Ava Wander, Albion, was elected to that council and Ray C. Bedke was elected to a first term to the Oakley City Council.

During the annual Farmer-Businessmen banquet sponsored by the Burley Chamber of Commerce, Nov. 11, Walter Amende, Albion farmer, was honored along with R. O. Hatch, Burley businessman.

Signs of the times

Richard Thomas Jenkins was shot in a gun battle with Burley police officers while Jenkins allegedly was holding up a cashier at the Safeway store. Surprised by police, he shot at Chief Ken Barry and Officer Ray Madden when they entered the store. Barry was wounded and Madden killed in the exchange of bullets.

November also saw the death of Rulon Budge, athletic coach at Burley High School for more than 30 years.

In December the Idaho First National Bank announced intentions to open a branch in Burley as soon as a suitable building could be located.

Three Simplot officials were killed in a Dec. 10 plane crash. Dead were John M. Jerman, pilot, Donald D. Bakes and William Skaggs, all Pocatello.

The plane was located north of the Snake River 16 miles west of American Falls, after going down in a snowstorm. Palmer R. Saterstrom, longtime businessman, died at year's end following a short illness. For many years he owned and operated Saterstrom's Pan-Hopewell, which gained nationwide fame. In recent years he had handled the convention and banquet reservations at the Ponderosa Inn and was active in community projects.

Cassia county commissioners held several meetings late in 1971 in an effort to establish landfills for the county. A suitable site has been obtained southeast of Burley. Bids are being sought for garbage pickup in the county, with bids to be opened in January.

A Cassia County Selective Service trio retired in late December. Frank H. Spencer, who served 20 years on the board, including 28 as chairman, Russell H. Jensen, 20 years, and John F. Chisholm, 18, all stepped down.

Sign language course to be offered at CSI

TWIN FALLS — A 10-week course in sign language for communicating with the deaf will be offered by the College of Southern Idaho during the Spring term.
